

Description of Additional Supplementary Files

File Name: Supplementary Movie 1

Description: Cable bacteria cutting stops the current. A cable bacterium filament is suspended in air between two metal electrodes, and a voltage difference is imposed. The filament is cut with a scalpel knife, and this immediately halts the current, thus demonstrating that the filaments is effectively guiding the current.