

Correlation between the content in AT and the number of predicted polyadenylation signals