Our work will be published in Big Data & Society (<https://journals.sagepub.com/home/bdsa>), an open-access journal focusing on critical data studies. I'm writing to ask if you would kindly grant us permission to include a screenshot of tape_measures. We will not profit from this publication, so we'd be greatly appreciative if you could please grant us permission to use your work for free or for a nominal fee. Please also let us know how you'd like to be credited. Thank you for your consideration. Regards,

Hi Shannon, no worries, feel free to use a screenshot. Do you mean a screenshot of the account or a specific picture? If it's the latter, I'll need to ask the individual photographer(s)

If you're just showing an overview of the main account, you can credit Berny Tan.

Thank you very much! I was hoping to show a screenshot of the account -- to give a sense of the variety of "tape architectures" we find in the material environment. I appreciate your generosity!

No worries then, go ahead and use it!

Hi Emily,

That's fine with us! Good luck with your article, and feel free to share it with us when it's published; we'd love to see it!

Best,

Hello,

I'm Emily Bowe, a graduate student in Urban Studies at The New School. I'm writing because I'm co-authoring an article on COVID-19 data visualizations, and my colleagues and I would like to feature your "The COVID Racial Data Tracker" piece in our publication. Specifically, we'd like to include screenshots of the COVIDvRace Dashboard and the StateGrades pages.

The article, which I'm writing with Erin Simmons, a fellow graduate student, and Shannon Mattern, a Professor of Anthropology, will appear later this month in a special online collection of Big Data & Society, one of the premier open-access, peer-reviewed academic journals in critical data studies.

We will receive no compensation for the piece. Fair Use guidelines cover screenshots of websites, but we wanted to reach out to get permission just to cover our bases as well. Please let us know, too, how you'd like to be credited, and if there's any particular information you'd like us to include in the caption.

Thank you very much for your consideration.

Hi Erin,

Thanks for getting in touch - you can find the images here.

All the best,

Dear Emily,

Thanks for reaching out and good luck on your project.

It's fine for you to use these images . . . please just credit us along the graphics.

My best

Ruth
