Research in Context

The following studies were identified during a search of PubMed and Google Scholar for articles reporting clinical data in English published since 2000 using the terms “bedaquiline resistance” and “clofazimine resistance” in combination with country names for the Southern African Development Community conducted on 13th May 2020. Studies reporting only in vitro results and review articles were excluded.

Supplementary Methods

Whole genome sequencing bioinformatics pipeline

Adapters were removed using Trim Galore v0.3.7. Reads were mapped to H37Rv (NC_000962.3) with BBMap v38.32 specifying a 98% identity threshold, de-duplicated with Picard Tools v2.20 and then mean genome coverage measured with Qualimap v2.21. FreeBayes v1.2 was used to call variants with supported by ≥ 4 reads, including ≥ 1 on each strand, with mapping quality ≥ 20 and base quality ≥ 30 . Functional consequences of the identified variants were annotated with snpEff.

Additional studies included in phylogenies

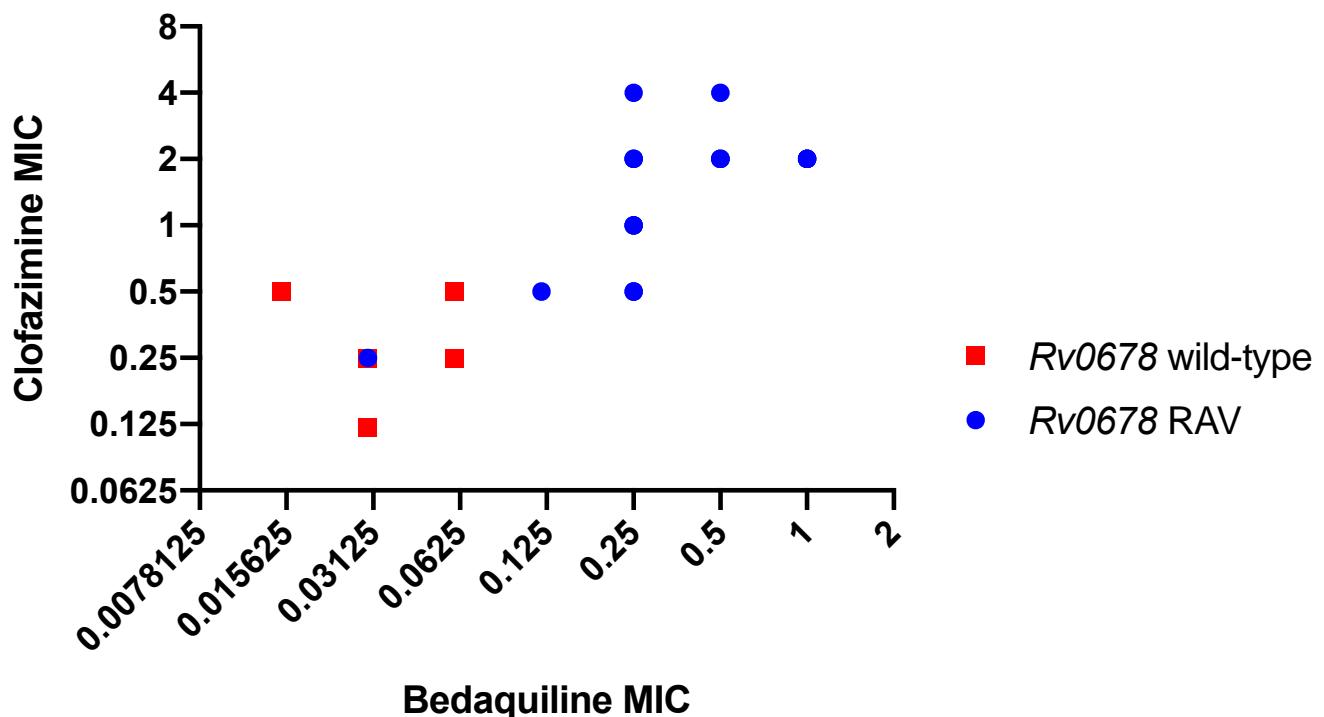

A selection of additional whole genome sequences from studies in southern Africa were included to provide phylogenetic context. Where isolates with Rv0678 resistance-associated variants had been identified by BIGSI or PYGSI from a published study, other whole genome sequences from that study were also included.

Additional lineage 2 genomes from southern Africa were identified by screening the National Center for Biotechnology Information (NCBI) Sequencing Read Archive with BIGSI for Mycobacterium tuberculosis whole genome sequences collected from Southern African Development Community countries with the phylogenetically definitive nucleotide change in rpsA 636 A→C.(1)

Additional lineage 4 genomes from Southern African Development Community countries were included from a comprehensive global study of lineage 4.(2)

Supplementary Figure 2 (page 5). Linear phylogenetic tree of lineage 2 sequences, indicating study identification number (format XX_X0000X) for samples sequenced for this study, or NCBI Sequencing Read Archive / European Nucleotide Archive accession number for publicly available samples (starting SRR/ERR). Annotations indicate resistance-associated variants and previously observed resistance profile associated with the variant.

Supplementary Table 2. Isolates from our centre with Rv0678 variants, and preceding isolates from the same patient if available. Patients previously reported in Nimmo et al (10) are denoted with the corresponding patient identifier in brackets. All variants in Rv0678 and Rv1979c are shown. No resistance-associated variants were found in pepQ or atpE. Drug resistance classification was determined by phenotypic testing. Bedaquiline and clofazimine MICs are shown where tested. Patients are referred to by five-character study identifiers. *There was discordance with the same sample tested separately at a critical concentration of 0.25 µg/mL appearing phenotypically resistant.
