

Supplementary Fig. S5. Sectional view of an autopsied heart after sudden death due to cardiac sarcoidosis. The heart shows multifocal granulomata in the right and left ventricular myocardium. The multilobulated shape of these granulomata suggest that they are conglomerated lesion of many small granulomas. The location within the myocardial wall are subendocardial and subepicardial.