

Figure S1. The effect of different antibiotic treatments - amoxicillin, streptomycin, tetracycline, and a combination of all antibiotics - on the relative aromatic compound ion abundances (%; calculated from ion abundances) compared to the control group. Coloured bars represent means, error indicators are standard errors. In-figure text denotes the result and statistical parameters of a non-significant Kruskal-Wallis test. df= degrees of freedom; N= sample size.