

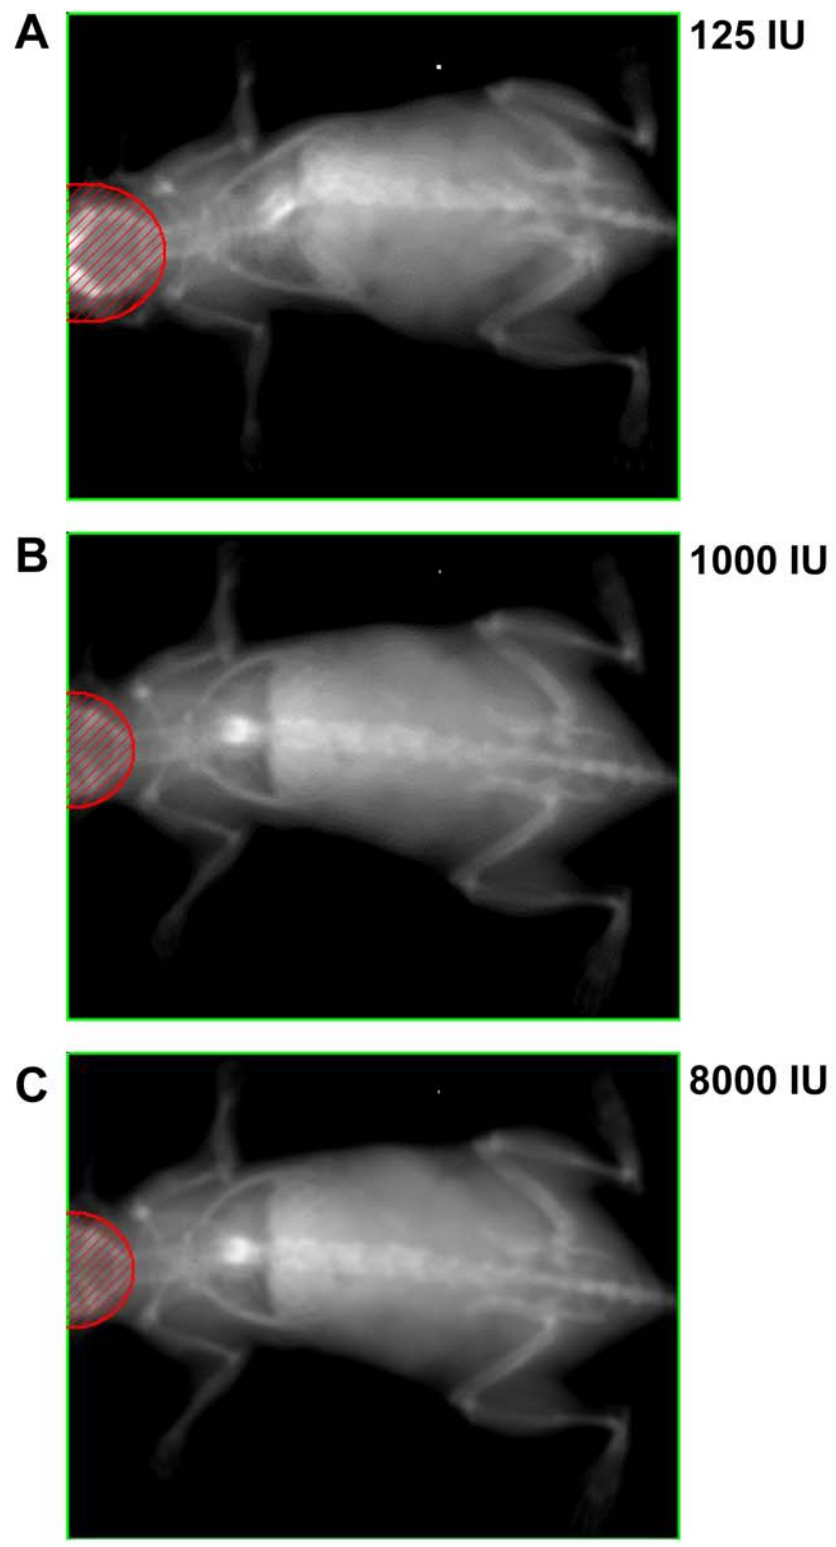

Figure S1.

Supplemental Figure 1. Dual X-ray absorptiometry was used to acquire X-ray images of mice before and after 4 months of differential vitamin D supplementation. Representative images of mice closest to the group mean for bone mineral density at endpoint for 125IU (A), 1000IU (B), and 8000IU (C) supplementation groups, respectively.