Additional file 9

Recommendations to inform health care policy and practice

Carers for those with a rare disease should be included in future research and given a voice particularly when in a situation with health care professionals Rare disease training for health and social care professionals would better equip them to care for those with a rare disease

A rare disease registry would be extremely helpful when planning rare disease support Effective, accessible communication must be considered when developing rare disease support