

This is an interesting paper highlighting an innovative approach at antimicrobial resistance of Enterobacteriaceae spp.

The paper is well written and detailed.

However, I have some questions about article:

Authors should explain a potential action mechanism of compound 11

Can author clarify the correlation between lab tests and potential clinical applications?