

Supplemental Figure S3: Accuracy of predictions of fusions with intergenic breakpoints.

The sensitivity/specificity trade-off is depicted using receiver operating characteristic (ROC)-like curves. The vertical axis indicates the number of predictions confirmed by wet-lab experiments or structural variants; the horizontal axis indicates the number of unconfirmed predictions. Only tools that are capable of detecting fusions with intergenic breakpoints were included (Arriba, deFuse, InFusion).