

Supplemental Figure: Calibration plot for Mayo Delirium Prediction model using the validation cohort ^a.

^a Patients were grouped based on deciles of the predicted probability. The observed proportion of patients in a given group who experienced delirium during their hospital stay is plotted against the average predicted probability for that group. The line of identity, representing perfect calibration, is included as a reference.