SECTION THREE: REASON FOR AUTHORSHIP CHANGE

Please provide a detailed explanation for the change in authors in the box below.

In this paper's first submission to the journal, there was minimal results data presented. The inclusion of increased results was requested by the two reviewers of the initial submission. In order to include the data that was requested, the frontline social worker who has been collecting the data needed to review the data, run it through the data management software and pull various reports and graphs to support the written submission. This work was substantial, and contributed to clarity in the written submission itself. The amount of work contributed was enough to warrant inclusion as a co-author.
