

Supplemental Material S6. Exploring preferential response to treatment. Scatterplot representing articulatory awareness skill relative to auditory-perceptual acuity. Articulatory awareness and auditory-perceptual acuity are presented as unitless z-scores relative to a sample of typically developing children (higher is better). Point size shows one participant (6104) with a significant difference in normalized F3-F2 distance between biofeedback conditions.

