

Fig. S3: Schematic representation of zone of regeneration for histological and immunofluorescent imaging. Cross-sectional images were acquired as confocal tile scans. The zone of regeneration was characterized by disorganized smaller diameter muscle fibers. The VML defect was marked by a thin layer of connective tissue with minimal cell infiltration. Schematic created with BioRender.