Additional Information
Who can access the data: Every investigator providing a methodologically sound proposal to test the data for confirmation or on a novel research question will be given access to the data repository after positive evaluation of his/her request by members of the SETPOINT2 steering committee in agreement with the Patient-Centered Outcomes Research Institute (PCORI) policies.
Types of analyses: Individual participant data underlying the results presented here including data dictionaries will be made available after de-identification (text, tables, figures, appendices), as well the study protocol and the statistical analysis plan, beginning one year and ending seven years following article publication.
Mechanisms of data availability: Proposals should be directed to either mail@julian-boesel.de or sederd@mmc.org. After approval, the requestor will have to sign a data access agreement.
