

Research Highlight

- Magnetic nanomaterials significantly improve the extraction efficiency compared to conventional sample preparation
- Gold nanoparticles with size-dependent surface plasmon resonance were widely applied in colorimetric sensors for detecting illicit drugs
- Nanomaterials with fluorescent characteristics become the new alternatives as a part of fluorescent sensors to analyze illicit drugs.