

Figure S9. Comparison of effect size estimates between males and females for index variants showing a significant difference in effect size between sexes. Effect size estimates are from trans-ancestry meta-analysis in each sex and were more often stronger in females relative to males.