Supplementary Figure 13: Confusion matrix which evaluates our InceptionV3 classifier (trained on the real dataset) on the synthetic dataset. Both the real and synthetic dataset have the same disease distribution. Values are normalized over the true predictions/labels (rows), thus each value in the matrix represents the proportion of true label classified by the model as the predicted label indicated by the column.

Predicted label