

Data Sharing Statement

Sanchis. Effect of Routine Invasive vs Conservative Strategy in Older Adults With Frailty and Non-ST-Segment Elevation Acute Myocardial Infarction. JAMA Intern Med. Published March 06, 2023. doi:10.1001/jamainternmed.2023.0047

Data

Data available: Yes

Data types: Deidentified participant data

How to access data: The MOSCA-FRAIL study is committed to responsible data sharing.

Data sharing will be considered upon reasonable request. The data in the case report forms (DATARUS, Barcelona, Spain) can be exported in different formats depending on the nature of the collaboration. All collaborations will be made after a collaboration agreement

When available: With publication

Supporting Documents

Document types: None

Additional Information

Who can access the data: The MOSCA-FRAIL study is committed to responsible data sharing. Data sharing will be considered upon reasonable request. The data in the case report forms (DATARUS, Barcelona, Spain) can be exported in different formats depending on the nature of the collaboration. All collaborations will be made after a collaboration agreement

Types of analyses: The MOSCA-FRAIL study is committed to responsible data sharing. Data sharing will be considered upon reasonable request. The data in the case report forms (DATARUS, Barcelona, Spain) can be exported in different formats depending on the nature of the collaboration. All collaborations will be made after a collaboration agreement

Mechanisms of data availability: After approval of a proposal